Short summary of idea*

To show the recent module completion date each time the user completes the module instead of showing only the date the user completed the module for the first time.

Application/Area

Learning

Description

Recently, I happened to notice that If the user complete any of the module and retake the same module within the course validity, the module completion date was not updated. Only the last access date is update. It would be great If the module complete date is updated each time the user completes the modules. This is useful when we ask the user to retake the module and we will know that the user has completed the module and not just accessed.
