Description

I saw there was a paid add-on to restrict access to the Claramentis site based on IP. Tightening security is always a priority. But we allow our users to connect from anywhere not just a specific IP. So what would be useful would be a way to restrict it by "country". So that, we could say that any IP in the USA, Canada or Mexico could access the site but all other countries would be blocked. Obviously a VPN can make someone look like they are in whatever country they want. But limiting which countries could hit your login screen would cut down on some of the traffic.
