Anchors and links

Application/Area

Knowledge Base

Description

1. Headings are the primary link points in many articles and I find it cumbersome to have to add an anchor at every heading. Can you enable links to be pointed to headings as well as user defined anchors. This is a feature have used extensively in many other wikis.

2. Having to add "anchor" to the name of every anchor is annoying and seems unnecessary. The explanation as to why in the knowledge base article is not explanatory and the system should really handle issues like this itself.

3. Links to other areas of the site, e.g. other articles and categories should not require me to copy the URL: and then edit it to remove the domain. They should be part of the structured link system. When I add a link I want to choose if this is a link to a URL, another article, a category, some other part of the system, an anchor on the page or a URL.
