Description
Today, we have been made aware of a Met Office weather warning for high winds.

We work in construction and this poses a significant risk to our staff and operatives based on site.

We have distributed a news article detailing the weather warning. We would really like to be able to add a scrolling text bar to the top of the home page too that draws people's attention to the current risk.

At the moment, we have added just a text box with the text highlighted in yellow, but a moving scroll text would be preferred.

Much the same as the bar that scrolls along the bottom of the BBC or Sky breaking news channels.
