News Item Scheduler

Application/Area

News

Description

Please could you consider creating a news item scheduler view.

Whilst we acknowledge there is a 'unpublished news' box currently, this doesn't show you at a glance the date / time it's scheduled for posting.

I also have a subordinate who submits news articles for approval. Once approved, they disappear from my 'unpublished news' as a future article, and sit in my assistants 'unpublished news' box. She also can't see what I have scheduled.

To avoid clashes and news items being posted at the same time / close to each other, which is something we don't want to do, could a schedule view be developed where you could see ALL news items 'in the queue' ready to publish from any approved users mapped on a calendar. A bit like how adobe express does for social media posts, for example (screenshot attached).

If the schedule view is a step too far, could the unpublished box be updated so that it includes the date and time below the article name and also who it's published by so it picks up by others? (screenshot attached). This would be seen on all news publishers boxes.

Thank you for considering.
