Short summary of idea*

Allow All Policies to be the default view in Policy Manager

Application/Area

Policy Manager

Description

When an organisation isn't using target distribution very much (or at all), it can be confusing to users to see My Policies as the default view.

We have the Policies left hand menu visible all the time. When clicking into that menu from viewing a policy the list defaults to My Policies each time. The user then has to click again to select All Policies to see policies where target distribution isn't set for them. It isn't the best user experience and it causes a bit of confusion if the user isn't accessing Policy Manager to complete a mandatory read of a policy.

It would be helpful to have a setting on the admin side where you could either turn off target distribution/My Policies or change the default view to All Policies.

Thanks for considering this.
