Description

I believe at the moment that you can only have one template for each news channel that you have.

One of our news channels, for example, is "Staff and Social news"

Under this heading there are a lot of items that get published, but the main ones are:

'new starters'

'leavers'

'promotions'

We like to standardise the posts when we have need to publish news about any of those things. At the moment we have a channel template that includes for all three, and we delete the ones that we don't want at that time.

It would be great if you could have multiple templates for each of your channels that you can select from when creating a new news item.

Thank you for your consideration
