Empty Search Should Include the User's Parameters

Application/Area

Search

Description

Not knowing what the full parameters around a user's search hampers the ability of site administrators to address any issue. For instance, on our site, if a user searches for "certification," there are a number of results, but if they search the Forms application specifically, they won't find anything. Knowing that they were searching for a form indicates that perhaps we need to do user education or create a search recommendation guiding users to the PDF form in the Documents application.
