

Running an Intranet Soft Launch

This article is a guide for Intranet Administrators who are looking to conduct a soft-launch of their site to their end-users as part of the Claromentis Onboarding process.

Introduction

A soft launch is an optional but valuable step in ensuring the success of your organisation's intranet rollout. By launching the intranet to a smaller, controlled group of users first, you can gather valuable feedback, identify potential issues, and make necessary improvements before the full company-wide launch.

This guide provides a step-by-step process to help your team execute a smooth and effective soft launch, ensuring the intranet meets the needs of all users and achieves its intended goals. Tweak this as you see fit to garner feedback about your Intranet.

Goals of the Soft Launch

- To identify and address any technical issues or usability concerns before the full launch.
- To gather meaningful feedback from a diverse group of users to improve the intranet's functionality and user experience.
- To familiarise key users with the intranet and encourage engagement and adoption across the organisation.

Suggested Timings

The soft launch phase typically lasts up to 3 weeks, depending on the size of your pilot group and the complexity of your intranet.

Task	Suggested Timeframe
Identify Pilot Group	Week 1
Send Introductory Email	Week 1
Kickoff Meeting/Webinar	Week 1
Pilot Group Testing	Week 2
Feedback Survey Completion	End of Week 2
Final Feedback Session	Week 3
Address Key Issues & Plan Launch	Week 3

Process

1. Identify a Pilot Group

- Step 1: Select a diverse group of users across different departments (e.g., 10% of the company or 5-10 users).
- Step 2: Email your pilot group to inform them of the new site, the intranet's goals, and what the soft launch will involve. (Template provided below)
- Step 3: Schedule a quick kickoff call with your Intranet management team or lead to introduce the intranet and outline their role in the soft launch.

2. Create a Feedback Mechanism

- Step 1: Use the Claromentis Survey application to create a dedicated feedback form. (Template provided below) You can also produce your own feedback form, should you wish.
- Step 2: Establish a communication channel (e.g., a dedicated email or Slack channel) for questions or requests for help.

3. Introduce the Intranet to the Pilot Group

- Step 1: Hold a short kickoff meeting or webinar to introduce the intranet, and provide a quick demo showcasing key features.
- Step 2: Share the goals of the soft launch and explain how their feedback will shape the final product.
- Step 3: Share a list of features to explore.

4. Gather Feedback

- Step 1: Ask users to complete the intranet survey with relevant feedback.
- Step 2: Schedule a final call to gather any face-to-face feedback.

5. Address Key Issues & Plan for Launch

- Step 1: Your Intranet administrators can make adjustments on your site based on feedback.
- Step 2: Report any technical issues to your dedicated Claromentis Onboarding Team.
- Step 3: Schedule the official launch date.

Conclusion

A well-executed soft launch is essential for ensuring your intranet meets the needs of your organisation. By involving a pilot group and actively gathering feedback, you can identify and address any issues before the full launch, increasing the likelihood of long-term adoption and success.

The feedback gathered during this phase is invaluable in refining the intranet and ensuring it becomes an integral tool for collaboration, communication, and resource management within your company.

Remember, the soft launch is not just a technical test—it's an opportunity to build excitement, gather advocates, and set the stage for a successful company-wide rollout.
