To access the admin panel of the News application and Channels & Template area, you will need to be granted permission as an application administrator.

With the correct permissions, you can do the following:

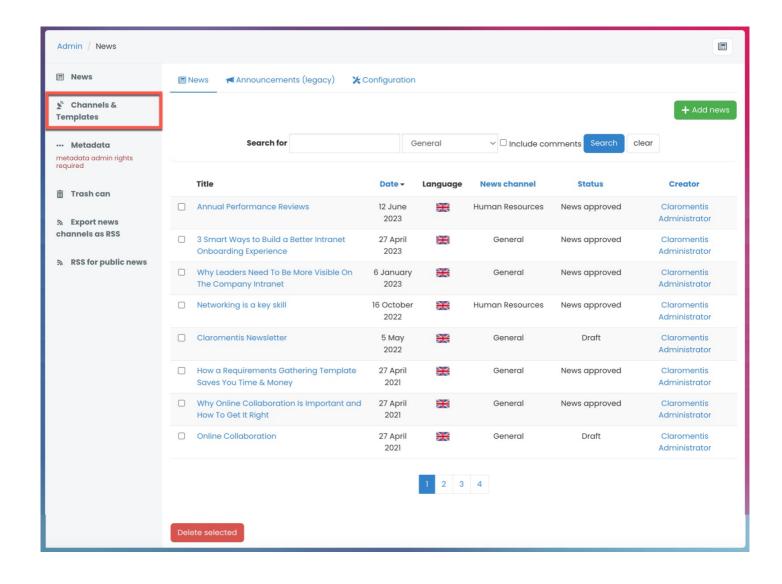

- · Allocate permissions enabling you to direct users to the correct articles.
- Delete channels and re-assign existing articles to a different channel.
- Use the template feature to create a basic template for all articles inside of a channel allowing you to set a structure of how all articles should be created.
