

Renewing Policies

Overview

When policies are close to expiring, you'll need to renew them so they are up-to-date. In this article, we will provide you with the best way to go about renewing your annual policies while retaining the older version and its acceptance history.

If you would like to find out more about the Policy manager Lifecycle, please click here.

How to renew a policy

When renewing a policy, we recommend using our '+ Create New Version' feature. By doing so, the old policy will be available while the new one is created.

This policy is currently live and in version 1.

Working Hours Policy

The Arrangements for Working Hours including Remote and Homeworking

1. Working hours

Full-time hours of work will be 35 per week as per the contract of employment. Office hours are between 9am and 5pm and during this period the office must be adequately staffed so that the services may be provided efficiently. This will include the lunchtime period. For example, there must be at least 1 employee present in each service department during these times. During occasional events such as team lunch or activity, an emergency support contact arrangement must be in place.

Working times are subject to management approval.

2. Contracted hours:

The contractual working week for full-time employees is 35 hours to be worked over 5 days (Monday to Friday) a minimum of 7 hours a day. For part-timers, working hours will be as stated in the contract of employment and work days agreed with the manager.

Distribution stage

Now that your policy is updated and ready to go, you can move it to the last stage, also known as the Distribution status.

Before this takes place, you will be prompted with the following option to choose whether to send a notification to users (in 'Target Distribution') of the new policy or not:

Policy Manager ↕ ✕

Please note: The old version of this policy POL-0002-Flexible Working Policy will be automatically recalled and replaced with this one. The old policy will be available in the version history.

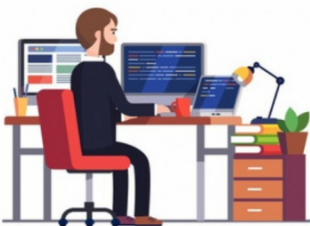

Send notification to users to read and re-accept the new version of this policy.
 Do not send notification

Please note: As stated above, the old version of the policy will automatically be recalled/archived and replaced with the new one. The old policy will be available from the Policy History and the acceptance history of the prior version will also be retained (in 'Acceptance Status').

For more information on recalled policies, please click here.

Your policy is now live and will appear as such:
